

WHAT TO DO IF YOU GET HIT BY A DRUNK DRIVER

Step 1: Call 911

Contacting the police not only helps to protect your rights, it also ensures that there will be documentation proving the collision occurred.

Step 2: Exchange Contact Information

This can be difficult if the other driver is under the influence, but if you try to speak with them and notice signs of inebriation take note of what you see, hear, and smell. If the other driver is coherent, exchange contact and insurance information and wait for law enforcement to arrive.

Step 3: Notify the Police That You Believe the Other Driver Is Intoxicated

When police arrive on scene, advise them of your observations and suspicions. The police will investigate the other driver and determine whether they are showing signs of impairment.

Step 4: Gather Evidence

Use your phone to take pictures of your vehicle, any other vehicles involved, and the surrounding scene of the accident. Pictures of broken road signs or fences, tire marks, and other signs of damage can be critical to an investigation. If any witnesses are nearby, ensure that the police also speak with them to obtain a statement. Evidence gathered at the scene can be beneficial when seeking legal assistance.

Step 5: Seek Medical Attention

After you've been in a car wreck you will likely be agitated and feel a rush of adrenaline. This can delay symptoms of a serious injury. We recommend you visit a doctor ASAP. By failing to seek medical treatment you may be putting your health at risk.

Step 6: Contact DeVaughn James Injury Lawyers

We can help you get the compensation you deserve. We can help you obtain medical treatment and get the money you need to pay your bills. If you are forced to take time off of work, we can help you recover lost wages. We can also fight for other damages, including pain and suffering and emotional distress.
